Manitoba Hydro's Vegetation Management Policy

The management of vegetation near and around power lines is essential for the safe and reliable supply of energy. Tall growing trees and shrubs can interfere with overhead conductors causing power outages and safety hazards to property owners and the public.

Manitoba Hydro has policies regarding managing vegetation that interfere with overhead powerlines.

Energy Benchmarking for ice/curling rinks

Ice/curling rinks operate for many hours a day, seven days a week, and can have a variety of different uses. Creating and maintaining high calibre ice/curling rink surfaces is particularly important for facility owners and managers, who are always looking for ways to reduce their utility costs. This is where benchmarking with the ENERGY STAR Portfolio Manager tool can help.

Benchmarking with Portfolio Manager can help you set priorities for your ice/curling rinks. By measuring how your facility compares with other similar facilities across Canada, you will be able to identify
