Purpose of this Guide

People are an organization's greatest asset. Effective recreation programs and services depend upon good leadership. Finding the right person to fill the role of recreation director will be a key decision that will shape the future of recreation in your community for years to come. With planning you will find the right candidate for your organization.

Recruitment of the recreation director is one of the most important responsibilities of the recreation authority. A strong partnership between the director and the recreation authority, based on mutual respect, clarity of roles and communication is essential to the success of the organization. Finding the right person can require considerable time and effort and organizations should expect the process to take up to three months.

This practical guide has been developed as a how-to tool to be used during the hiring process but can also be used as a means of evaluating your current human resource practices.

How to Use this Guide

The recruitment process can be broken down into five steps:

1. Getting Ready

Determining the Responsibilities and Requirements of the Recreation Director

2. Recruiting for the Position

3. Screening Applicants and Conducting Interviews

4. Checking References and Making the Job Offer

5. Job Orientation and Ongoing Support

Each step is important. Take time for ample thought and planning at each point and your efforts will be rewarded with a successful outcome and a recreation director who will be your organization's greatest asset.

Definitions

Recreation: All those things that a person or group choose to do in order to make their leisure time more interesting, more enjoyable and more personally satisfying. (Canadian Ministers of Recreation, 1987)

Recreation Director: An individual employed by a recreation authority responsible for the delivery of recreation programs and services.

Local Government Council: A municipal council, community council or first nation council.

User Group: A local community group that utilizes recreation facilities and/or programs.

Recreation Authority:

Each community is unique and provision of recreation services will be handled in different ways depending on the organizations involved. These differences may include the language commonly used to describe the lead provider of recreation services. Recreation Authority will be used throughout this document and will refer to the following as applicable to your community:

Recreation Commission: An organization that is developed by local government in accordance with their bylaws to share resources and provide recreation leadership for the delivery of community recreation programs and services.

Recreation Department: A local government department responsible for the delivery of recreation programs and services to the citizens of their community.

Board of Directors: a group of persons chosen to be legally responsible for governing the affairs of the recreation commission. May also refer to local government council representatives responsible for recreation services.

An organization, no matter how well designed, is only as good as the people who live and work in it.

HELP AND SUPPORT

Hiring or replacing a Recreation Director can be a daunting task. To help you get started or for additional information and assistance along the way, contact:

Province of Manitoba

Recreation and Regional Services, a branch of Manitoba Children and Youth Opportunities, supports individuals and groups with their efforts to provide recreation opportunities in their communities. Planning tools, facilitation, advice and guidance are available by contacting RRS@gov.mb.ca or one of the eight offices located throughout the province.

See Appendix A for a complete listing of regional offices.

Aboriginal and Northern Affairs employs Recreation & Wellness Development Consultants who are available to assist organizations providing opportunities for recreation and active living in 50 northern and remote communities.

Contact anaweb@gov.mb.ca for more information.

Recreation Connections Manitoba

Since 1995, Recreation Connections Manitoba (RCM) has been paving the way as a provincial association in providing support to recreation professionals and practitioners through education, advocacy, communication, networking and partnerships. Their goal is to build an enabling and credible organization that benefits all recreation interests - individuals, municipalities, organizations, institutions and business alike . . . and are committed to enhancing the health and wellness of Manitobans. RCM provides a myriad of programs and services including:

- Posting and circulating job advertisements through an extensive email network and on their website.
- Networking, training and professional development opportunities (i.e. workshops, courses, annual conference) for recreation professionals, facility managers, facility operators, front-line and seasonal staff. Training opportunities are offered year-round.

STEP 1: GETTING READY

Determining the responsibilities and requirements of the recreation director

1.1 An Interim Management Plan

Just because a key employee is leaving the organization doesn't mean that things will come to a stand still. The public will still expect the same level of service regardless of who is leading the way. In order to handle the transition period smoothly, an interim management plan should be developed as soon as notice has been received.

The plan should include:

Designation of authority:

- Who is in charge? Who does this person contact if a situation arises?
- Who do employees/volunteers contact for day to day matters?
- Who will sign cheques, make payments, do any banking, pick up and respond to mail?
- Has the alarm company, etc. been notified of any changes to the contact information for the recreation authority in case of an emergency?
- Have all passwords and user codes been changed?

Short term assignment of duties:

- Who will be responsible for fulfilling the duties of the recreation director position? Are the duties clearly listed and have they been communicated to the appropriate people?
- What duties or tasks can be postponed until a new recreation director is hired? Is there a record of current projects and critical deadlines?
- Who will be the liaison for committees and volunteer organizations?
- Who will assume responsibility for facility operations/scheduling, special events?
- Will recreation authority members be assuming any duties?
- Is there a collective agreement in place that may affect the distribution of duties?

1.2 Taking Stock

A change in leadership is a good opportunity for the recreation authority to take stock of how their organization fits into the recreation delivery system in their community.

Consider the following:

- What role does the recreation authority currently play in the provision of recreation services in the community and what is it's vision for the future?
- Does the community have a plan for recreation?
- What type of skills and support would a new recreation director need to meet the recreation vision and needs of the community?

If the recreation authority has not already done so, identifying it's priorities and developing a strategic plan to attain these goals is a good first step. Based on this planning, the recreation authority may determine that it wants to explore options for restructuring.

Restructuring can take many forms including:

- Changing the way services are designed and delivered.
- Amalgamating or working more closely with other organizations (i.e. arena boards, community centre boards, other volunteer boards).
- Examining staff needs to ensure the organization has the human resources required to meet it's goals. If necessary the recreation authority may consider hiring staff in addition to the recreation director (i.e. programmer, administrative support, facility personnel).

Remember...

The recreation delivery system in Manitoba is a partnership between community based organizations, that may or may not have a primary focus on recreation and regional and/or provincial based organizations that support the delivery of recreation opportunities in communities and throughout the province.

The recreation director must be able to effectively work with paid staff and volunteers from all these groups.

Your recreation authority may benefit by re-evaluating how it does business if...

The recreation director was working in the position for 3 years or less?

Yes ☐ No ☐

- Frequent employee turnover may be an indication that the organization would benefit from examining it's operation. Poor productivity, morale and inefficient communication may be other indicators that an organizational review is in order.

The board is unclear about their mandate and the goals of the organization?

Yes ☐ No ☐

- Programs and priorities change over time. Have the recreation authority's responsibilities changed? Is the recreation authority having trouble meeting the public's expectations? Do members have conflicting priorities for the organization? Development of a strategic plan that accurately outlines the recreation authority's goals for the future is a good first step in dealing with these issues.

You or a neighbouring community is proceeding with development of a recreation complex and/or you are responsible for aging infrastructure?

Yes ☐ No ☐

- Whether you or a neighbouring community is currently constructing a new facility, renovating an existing building or hoping to build something in the future, construction of a new facility is an excellent time to analyze your operation and identify partnership opportunities. New facilities may require your recreation director to have specialized skills and/or experience that should be incorporated into the job description.

The partnerships of the recreation authority have changed?

Yes ☐ No ☐

- When a partner joins your recreation authority or when a current partner leaves the partnership, expectations will change. How these changes affect the duties of the recreation director should be identified and any adjustments made to the job description prior to starting the hiring process.

You lack the capacity to deliver services at a desired level and reasonable cost?

Yes ☐ No ☐

- Several factors may impact a recreation authority's ability to operate at a desired level. Rising operational costs, an increase and/or decrease in population and the need for employees with specialized skills may require that adjustments be made to daily operations.

Other organizations are looking for support?

Yes ☐ No ☐

- Does another organization have available funding but lack the leadership needed to meet their goals? Does your organization have the human resources available to assist other community groups? Are volunteer organizations looking for specialized skills and/or training (i.e. rinks)? Is there any other organization offering similar services in the community? Perhaps a partnership or amalgamation would serve both organizations' needs.

If you answered YES to three or more of the questions listed above, your recreation authority would benefit from re-evaluating how it does business before proceeding with hiring a new recreation director.

Call your local Recreation and Regional Services Office for assistance in determining your next steps (Appendix A).

STEP 2: RECRUITING FOR THE POSITION

2.1 Develop a Job Description

A job description that clearly outlines the duties and responsibilities of the recreation director is the foundation of the employment process. A well researched and developed job description can be used as the basis for personnel recruitment, job advertisements, candidate selection, training and future performance appraisals.

A job description usually includes the following components:

- A general description of the job including the purpose of the job and basic functions.
- Identification of the immediate supervisor and reporting structure.
- A list of specific responsibilities and tasks.
- Knowledge, Skills and Abilities (Core Competencies): Job descriptions should outline the minimum qualifications necessary for the job including the core competencies of the position that could be gained through education and experience. Other qualifications could include specific licensure requirements (i.e. arena operator license) and completion of criminal record and child abuse registry checks.
- Other: Hours of Work. Due to the nature of the recreation business, it is very important that the job description identifies the recreation authority's expectations regarding evening and weekend hours of work. Also important will be identifying if the candidate will be required to use their personal vehicle for business purposes and any other Working Conditions the recreation authority may have.

Can one person do the job?

Preparing a job description and writing down the various tasks and responsibilities will reveal whether or not the job is realistic for one person.

Although a job description cannot outline every task assigned to a particular job, it should be an accurate summary of the position and should leave room for additional assignments if needed.

See Appendix B for sample job descriptions.

2.2 Job Description Template

When developing a new job description or reviewing the current job description the following template may be used. Organizations may also find it helpful to contact other communities for examples of job descriptions for similar positions.

Recreation Authority

The job description must be related to the recreation authority's vision, mission statement and goals

Job Title: Fill in organization's job title.

Reports To: Fill in title that this position reports to.

Approved By: Job descriptions should be approved by the recreation authority.

Approved Date: Date job description is approved by the recreation authority.

Summary or Scope (Basic purpose of the job): Briefly outline the overall job responsibilities (50 words or less).

Duties and Responsibilities: List the top 8 – 10 major job duties in order of priority and frequency that must be performed by the employee. For ease of evaluating duties and responsibilities, these may be divided into functional areas such as Administration, Program Planning, Facility Operation, etc.

Other duties as assigned: Include expectations such as committee membership and/or involvement as appropriate.

Knowledge, Skills and Abilities (Core Competencies): List the educational requirements, knowledge, and technical skills required for satisfactory job performance. These should be measureable and, if well developed, can be used as the basis for future performance evaluations.

Working Conditions: The unavoidable, externally imposed conditions under which the work must be performed including the frequency and duration of occurrence of physical demands, environmental conditions, mental demands.

Signature:

A signed copy of the job description should be placed in the employee's personnel file as a means of recording that the employee understands their job duties.

Core Competencies

are the personal attributes or underlying characteristics, which combined with education and technical or professional skills, enable the delivery of a job.

Remember...

Job descriptions should be reviewed yearly to ensure they accurately reflect the job duties required and being performed.

Sample Job Description Wording

Listed below are options for each category. Recreation authorities may choose to select items that reflect the requirements of their position and should not select all choices listed but only their priorities.

Job Descriptions are typically 1 – 2 pages in length (See Appendix B).

2.3 Hiring Committee

Each recreation authority should have a hiring or personnel committee. This committee may be an ad hoc committee formed only for the purpose of hiring the recreation director or may be a permanent standing committee responsible for ongoing human resource management.

This committee will be tasked with:

- Recruiting for the position
- Interviewing applicants
- Checking references

Once the committee has found a suitable candidate they will bring forward their recommendation for consideration and approval by all recreation authority members. When the hiring committee's selection has been approved by all members of the recreation authority the committee will:

- Negotiate the job offer
- Ensure the new director receives a thorough orientation to the job and community.

Remember...

The recreation authority's hiring or personnel committee is also responsible for ensuring the recreation director receives regular (yearly) performance reviews.

Successful Hiring Committees...

- ✓ Have a clearly defined mandate
- ✓ Are comprised of 3 to 5 members
- ✓ Do not have a conflict of interest or any perceived conflict of interest in the community.

Members may include:

- Recreation authority members/volunteers with human resource skills and experience
- Town/RM Chief Administrative Officer or Band Administrator
- Province of Manitoba Recreation and Regional Services Consultant or Aboriginal and Northern Affairs Recreation and Wellness Development Consultant
- Community Elder

2.4 Advertise the Opportunity

Getting your job posting to the right people will be the key to your success in recruiting a suitable candidate.

Typically qualified candidates can be found

- Within the organization: Is there someone currently working or volunteering with the organization that has the skills and experience to assume the role of recreation director? Promoting from within the organization has several positive benefits and can be very motivating for other staff members.
- Other recreation commissions or departments: Qualified people may be recruited from other communities. These individuals have the experience and knowledge of the recreation sector and may be able to assume the duties easily.
- Other Provinces: Consider whether recruiting from a neighbouring or other province is an option.
- The Private or Non Profit Sector: Qualified individuals may include volunteer administrators, economic or community development professionals, public or business administration professionals, and university or college graduates working in the public or private sector.

Job Advertisements
An effective advertisement highlights the key responsibilities of the position and will encourage an interested person to apply.

The Job Advertisement

If the recreation authority has reviewed the job description and determined the priorities of the position, they should have a clear idea of their needs.

In addition to notifying potential candidates of the available position, advertisements will also be used as a decision making tool in the assessment making process. A well written job advertisement can be an excellent way of marketing the organization and will set the tone for the hiring process.

Job Advertisements should include information from the job description that is presented in a way that will appeal to prospective employees.

Consider including the following:

- ✓ Job Title: Include the title of the open position. Remember that job titles often help communicate the scope of responsibility.
- ✓ Position Description: Use this opportunity to outline the key duties of the position and excite the reader about what they will be doing if they are the successful candidate. It is important to note that job titles may differ from organization to organization for the same job functions, so the position description will assist prospective candidates in learning more about the position.
- ✓ Knowledge, Skills and Abilities: What skills, education, and experience would the hiring committee expect the successful candidate to have? What are the required and preferred qualifications that the hiring committee is willing to accept? Advertisements should include the required and preferred academic, professional and work experience that is required for the position.
- ✓ What the organization offers: What separates your recreation authority or community from the others and would entice someone to want to join your organization? Remember salary is only one factor individuals consider when pursuing career opportunities. Information could include the facilities, personnel or other areas that may be of interest to prospective candidates.
- ✓ Salary: Mentioning salary is important and may save the hiring committee valuable time. If the salary is competitive with other organizations, it may help to attract qualified candidates. If the recreation authority does not have flexibility in the wage it is able to offer, then stating the salary in the job advertisement will discourage potential candidates from applying who are not prepared to accept the position at the current rate of pay.
- ✓ Respond To: Include contact names, phone numbers, physical and e-mail addresses, and internet links for candidates to obtain more information about the position. Be sure the contact person included in the advertisement is familiar with the position and will be able to answer any questions received. If the recreation authority has specific requirements for candidates to follow (i.e., no phone calls, attach résumé, include references), this information should be included in the advertisement.

See Appendix C for sample job advertisements.

Salary and Benefits

The Westman Recreation Practitioners Association has developed an Employee Classifications and Wage Scale resource that may be used as a tool to determine appropriate compensation rates based on the job duties and experience of the recreation director.
See Appendix D.

Recreation authorities may also contact other communities to ensure that the compensation package offered is competitive with other centres.

The Manitoba Municipal Employees Benefit Program (MEBP) provides pension, insurance and disability income services to employees of Manitoba municipal and quasi-municipal organizations such as recreation authorities. For more information call toll-free 1-800-432-1908

Recreation Director XYZ Recreation Commission

The XYZ Recreation Commission is accepting applications for a Recreation Director. This management position reports directly to the Chief Administrative Officer.

The Recreation Director is responsible for planning, implementing, and managing a broad range of community recreation services and facilities; encouraging maximum community involvement and coordination with other community organizations.

A post-secondary education in recreation with a minimum of three years experience in a local government environment is required. This experience shall include personnel management, recreation facility management and program planning. Excellent leadership skills and an ability to effectively communicate with the public, council and staff are necessary. The use of a vehicle for business purposes is required.

Our Town is a progressive community with excellent educational, medical, professional, recreational, and commercial services. The XYZ Recreation Commission offers a competitive salary and full benefits and pension package.

Qualified candidates are invited to submit resumes by (Date/Time) stating experience, education, related work references, and all other pertinent data to:

XYZ Recreation Commission, Box 00, Our Town, Manitoba, R0H 0X0

More information about Our Town and detailed information about this exciting opportunity can be found at ourtownrecreation.ca.

We thank all applicants for their interest; however, only those candidates being considered for an interview will be contacted.

2.5 Where to Advertise

Advertising can be expensive so choosing a location to advertise that will result in the best pool of candidates to select from is important. Consider advertising in the following:

Newspapers: Local and regional newspapers as well as newspapers that have a large distribution such as the Winnipeg Free Press. The content may be adjusted based on cost. To maximize space, include a website address where the detailed advertisement can be found.

Websites: Posting the position on the recreation authority's website and the town, RM or band website is an excellent way to reach a large number of people very economically. By using targeted websites that are visited by recreation professionals, you can be sure that your advertisement is reaching qualified individuals. Suggested websites include:

- Recreation Connections Manitoba: www.reconnections.com
- Sport Manitoba: www.sportmanitoba.ca
- Manitoba Aboriginal Sport and Recreation Council: www.masrc.com
- Association of Manitoba Municipalities (AMM): www.amm.mb.ca
- Physical Activity Coalition of Manitoba (PACM): www.pacm.ca
- Manitoba Fitness Council: www.manitobafitnesscouncil.ca
- Other provincial recreation organizations such as:
 - Saskatchewan Parks and Recreation Association (SPRA): www.spra.sk.ca
 - Ontario Recreation Facilities Association (ORFA): www.orfa.com

Job Sites: Using the government of Canada jobbank (www.jobbank.gc.ca) or local job sites is another excellent way of reaching a wide range of people. Sites such as workopolis.com or monster.ca are another means of advertising openings.

Publications: Do you publish an e-newsletter, brochure, or other promotional materials? Can you post your opportunity in another organization's news bulletin?

Word of mouth: Talk to people in other municipalities, other recreation departments, your local regional recreation consultant, or other community organization. They may know of someone who is perfect for the job! Want to extend your reach? Try using Facebook, LinkedIn and Twitter.

Be sure to ask your local province of Manitoba regional recreation office and Recreation Connections Manitoba to advertise the opportunity for you.

Posters: Post the job advertisement in locations throughout the community. The recreation centre, library, or a popular restaurant may have a location to post items of local interest.

An executive search company may be an option if the budget permits.

STEP 3:

SCREENING APPLICANTS & CONDUCTING INTERVIEWS

3.1 Review the Applications

Once the application deadline has passed and the hiring committee is no longer accepting applications, all of the resumes will need to be reviewed to determine which applicants the committee would like to interview.

Applications should be assessed on the pre-determined core competencies (knowledge, skills, and abilities) that the committee has identified as being essential to the position. Only those individuals with these skills and applicable experience should be contacted for an interview.

Typically committees will interview the top 3 – 5 candidates. If a suitable applicant is not found after meeting with these individuals, then the committee can proceed to meet with the next candidates from the list.

Hiring Committees should not screen applicants based on their personal knowledge of an individual but should use the information provided in the application.

Sample Screening Checklist

Each hiring committee member should evaluate the applications based on the characteristics the committee has previously identified as important for the position. Development of a chart will ensure that the most promising applicants are contacted for an interview first. See example screening checklist below based on job advertisement from page 23.

Required Competencies <ul style="list-style-type: none">From job advertisement (pg 19)Change to reflect job advertisement	Applicant #1	Applicant #2	Applicant #3	Applicant #4	Applicant #5
Relevant Education/Certification
Work/Volunteer Experience
Personnel Management
Recreation Facility Management
Program Planning
Leadership Skills
Communication Skills
Use of a Vehicle

3.2 Develop Interview Questions

The job interview is a critical component of the hiring process. Well developed interview questions will provide the hiring committee with a basis to assess the candidate's ability to perform the job successfully. They will also assist in determining if the person will be a good fit for the organization and the community.

Extensive research has been conducted on the type of questions to ask and there are excellent resources available for those who wish to gain more knowledge in this area. All interview questions and/or processes should strive to reveal a candidate's technical skills, knowledge, behaviours, and key motivators.

Once the committee has determined the key priorities for the successful candidate and the skills, knowledge and experience needed, the hiring committee can develop interview questions that will allow the candidate to demonstrate their abilities. For example, if one of the key duties of the recreation director will be operating a recreation centre, then the hiring committee must ensure that questions specific to facility operation are asked during the interview. This will allow candidates to exhibit their knowledge, training, and experience in operating facilities.

The Canadian Human Rights Commission identifies some questions that are not permitted to be asked at the interview. These may include questions about an applicant's:

- Religion
- Age
- Marital or family status
- Physical handicaps or health problems that might reveal handicaps or health conditions that are not necessarily relevant to job performance.

See Appendix E for a complete listing.

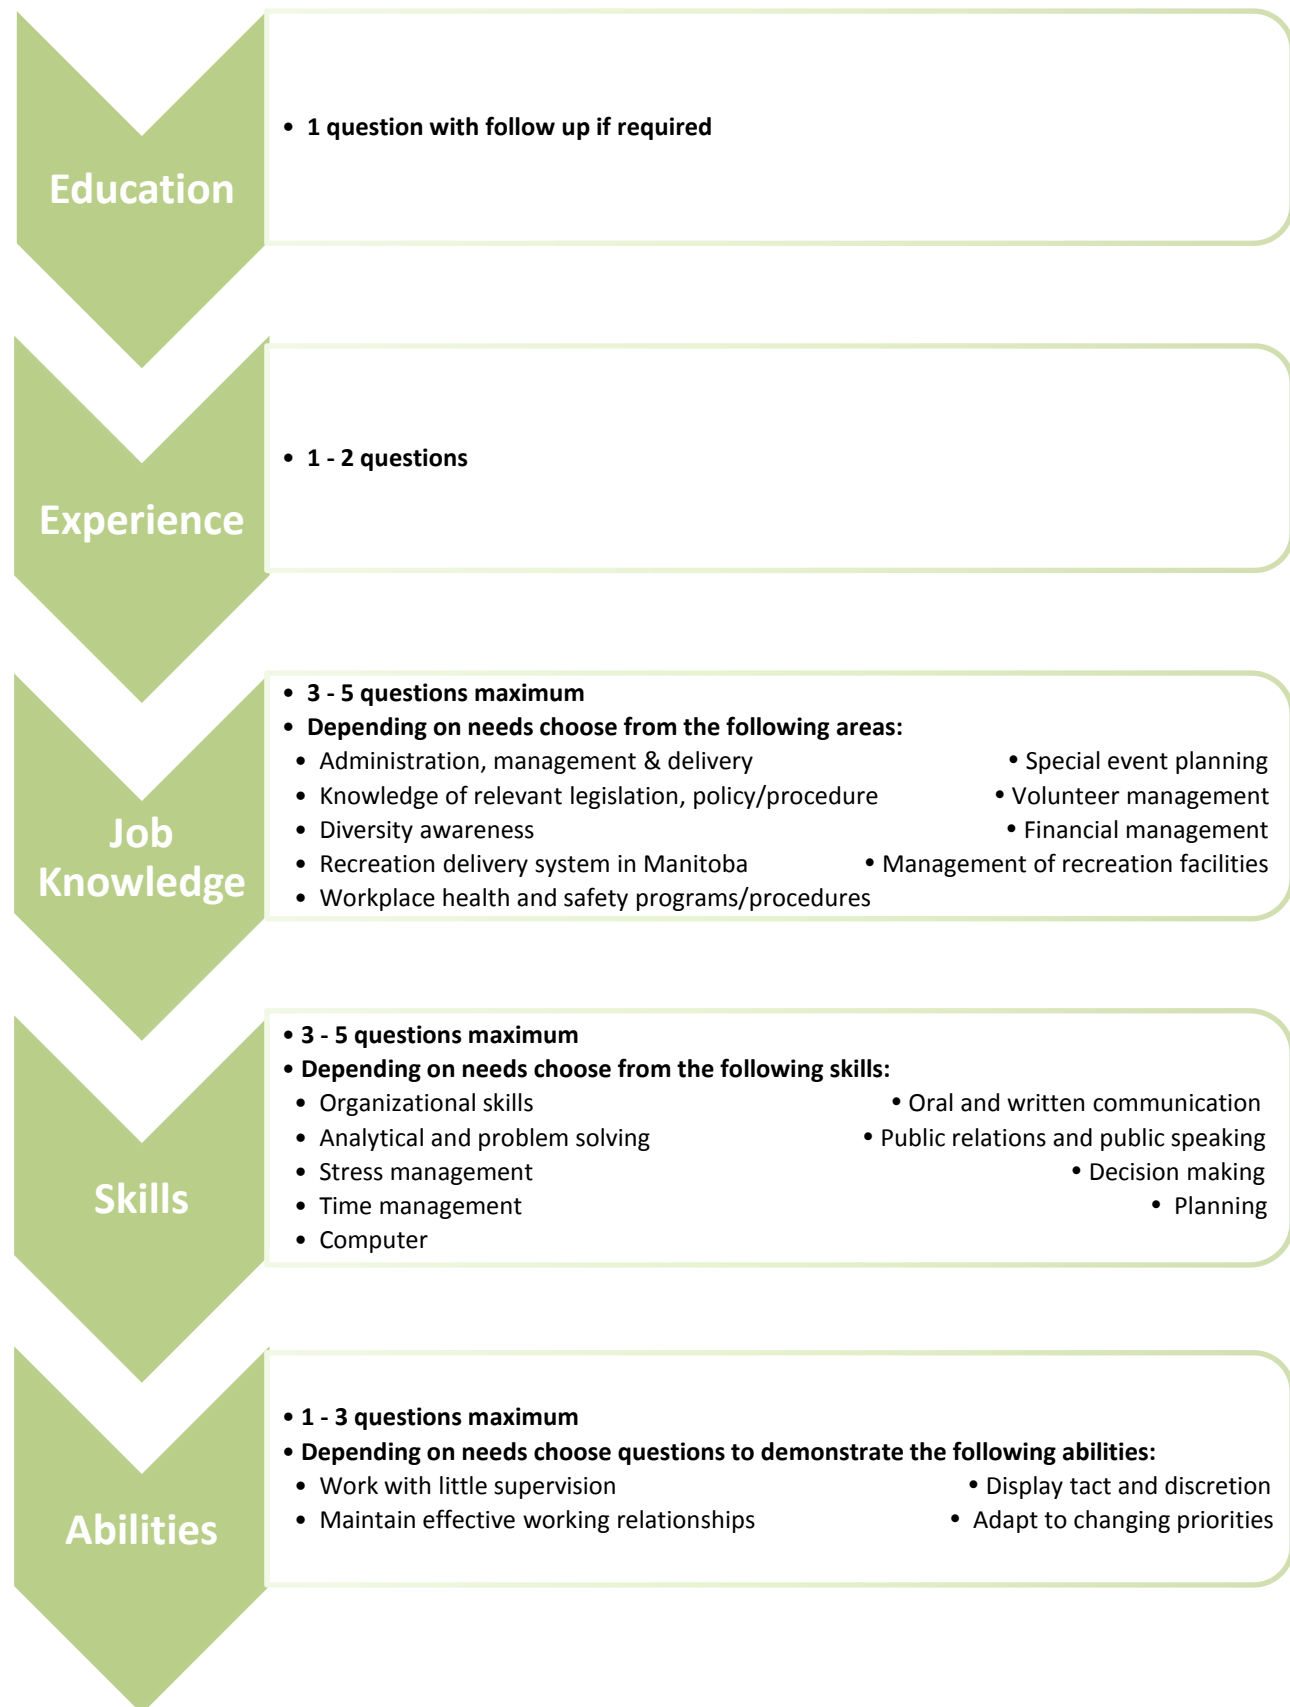

Interview questions should...

- relate to the core competencies identified as being important to the recreation authority in the screening questionnaire
- allow the candidate to demonstrate their ability to perform the job duties outlined in the job description.

Interview schedules should...

- be for 1 hour maximum.
- allow 10 – 15 minutes between candidates for committee review.

Interviews usually include questions about core competencies such as:

 - The hiring committee will need to determine if the candidate's responses will meet the recreation authority's needs.

The Hiring Committee should meet in advance to determine how they will conduct the interview

3.4 Conducting the Interview

A well organized interview ensures that the hiring committee gets the information they require to make a decision and makes the best use of the committee's time.

Typically, interviews are divided into the following components:

Introduction

(5 – 10 minutes)

- Build Rapport (2-5 minutes): Introduce yourself and the other committee members and try to make the candidate comfortable and relaxed. Make “small talk” as you settle into the interview setting.
- Provide Background Information (3-5 minutes): Give the candidate background information about the position and the recreation authority.
- Communicate Expectations (1 minute): Review the interview process that the committee has agreed upon. Inform the candidate that you will be asking questions first and will be recording their answers. Explain that there will be time for the candidate to ask questions at the end of the interview.

Interview Questions/Answers

(15 – 40 minutes)

- Based on the core competencies identified, ask questions to get the candidate to demonstrate their knowledge, skill and abilities.
- Ask open ended questions to encourage the candidate to do most of the talking. If necessary, ask the candidate to clarify and/or elaborate on a question. Remember your objective is to find evidence that a candidate has the skills needed to do the job.
- Be sure to take good notes as they will be used to evaluate the candidates later.

Interview Close

(5 – 10 minutes)

- Communicate Next Steps: Candidates will want to know the next steps of the interview process and when they will hear from you. Let them know your process and, if necessary, ask them for references. If the successful candidate will be required to successfully complete a criminal record and/or child abuse registry check as a condition of employment this is a good opportunity to share this information.
- Candidate's Questions: Leave enough time to answer any questions the candidate may have. This is an excellent time to sell the organization and will ensure each candidate leaves with a positive impression of the recreation authority.

STEP 4: Checking References & Making the Job Offer

4.1 Evaluating the Interview

During each interview, hiring committee members should take detailed notes of each candidate's responses. This information can be transferred to an interview evaluation sheet that will allow the committee to accurately assess each person's suitability for the position. Each committee member should complete the evaluation separately and then review the results as a group.

Master Interview Evaluation Tool

After each committee member has submitted their interview scores as recorded on the interview question sheet, all scores will be tabulated. Based on the highest score of all candidates, the hiring committee should proceed to the checking references stage of the interview process.

4.2 Check References

Checking references is an opportunity for the hiring committee to verify the information provided at the interview. Candidates should be prepared to provide three references; two of which should be from previous employers. Typically, family members are not considered appropriate references.

Process for Conducting Reference Checks

1. Plan and Prepare

- * Prepare reference questions.
- * From the references provided by the candidate select references who have observed the candidate's work, preferably immediate supervisors.
- * Identify information from the interview that needs to be confirmed
- * Determine who will conduct the reference checks. Typically, this is done by one person who can ensure that the reference checks will be completed fairly and consistently in a way that meets legislated requirements

2. Gather Information

- * Explain to the reference why you are calling and tell them about the position you are filling.
- * Ask the reference to support opinions with facts, behaviours, critical incidents and recent knowledge of the candidate.
- * Be alert to unusual hesitations, vague or evasive answers, overly negative or vindictive responses. If the reference is not completely frank, note your concerns and return to these points later or check them out with another reference.

3. Apply Information

- * Look for patterns of behaviour. Do not let isolated incidents have undue influence on the decision.
- * If reference disclosed interpersonal conflicts, weigh the information carefully and evaluate the likelihood of such conflicts occurring again.
- * If a negative reference is provided, or as a result of company policy a previous employer does not provide references, request an additional reference from the candidate to ensure balanced feedback.
- * If feedback received from reference checks raises concerns about the candidate's suitability, the hiring committee should meet to review the assessment, undertake a risk analysis and reach a decision on the suitability of the candidate for the position.

Did you know?

- The Manitoba Personal Investigations Act mandates that the candidate's consent is required before conducting reference checks with persons other than those listed on the candidate's resume.
- References are a matter of record and must be documented in the competition file. Under the Freedom of Information & Protection of Privacy Act, a candidate can access this record and obtain a copy of reference information.

Sample Reference Questions:

Not all of the questions will apply to each candidate

1. In what capacity do you know (name of candidate)?
2. What is your opinion of (name of candidate)'s skills in terms of their ability to deliver recreation programs within their current position?
3. Did (name of candidate) supervise other employees? How effectively? If I spoke to those employees, how do you think they would describe (name of candidate)'s management style?
4. How did (name of candidate) handle conflict? How about pressure? Stress?
5. Did you evaluate (name of candidate)'s performance? Can you speak to his/her strong and weak points? What was noted as needing improvement during this performance review?
6. What was (name of candidate)'s biggest accomplishment while working for your organization?
7. Can you describe his/her experience working as a member of a team?
8. Is there anything I haven't asked that you would like to share with me?
9. If you had the opportunity, would you re-hire (name of candidate)?

Remember...
document the reference results!

Criminal Record and Child Abuse Checks

Completion of criminal record and child abuse checks are not a requirement of the hiring process. However since the recreation director, through their work responsibilities, is frequently in contact with children and is responsible for public resources, it is recommended that candidates be required to complete criminal record and child abuse checks as a condition of employment.

Contact your local RCMP or police detachment for more information.

4.3 Negotiate the job offer

Now that you have determined which candidate you would like to hire, making the offer of employment is the final step. The successful candidate should be contacted by phone or in person and a formal letter of offer should be sent to the candidate once they have accepted the position. Unsuccessful candidates should be informed of the committee's decision as soon as possible after the successful candidate has accepted the position and signed the letter of offer.

The committee should be prepared to negotiate the following as their authority permits:

- Salary and benefits
- Vacation allowance
- Overtime and mileage rates
- Start date
- Hours of work
- Work location

The Letter of Offer should include the following details:

- Start date; including time and work location
- Starting salary and hours of work
- Immediate supervisor
- A place for the candidate to sign and formally accept the position

Included with the letter of offer should be a copy of the recreation authority's current personnel policy that outlines the specific conditions of employment.

Sample Letter of Offer:

4.4 Sample Letter to Unsuccessful Candidate

On organization letterhead*

While letters to unsuccessful candidates should be sent in a timely manner, recreation authorities should ensure that they have received a signed letter of offer from the successful candidate prior to notifying unsuccessful applicants of their decision.

The image shows a sample letter on a light green background with a subtle pattern. In the top left corner, there is a logo consisting of a green oval with the word "LOGO" in black. To the right of the logo, the text "XYZ Recreation Commission" is written in bold. Below this, the letter is addressed to a candidate. The text is as follows:

Date

Candidate's Name and Mailing Address

Dear (Name of Candidate):

Re: (Job Title) Position

Thank - you for your interest in the (Job Title) position for the XYZ Recreation Commission.

We enjoyed meeting with you and discussing your interest in the position. In considering all candidates , we felt that the qualifications of another candidate more closely suited the needs of our organization at this time.

We wish you success in your job search.

Yours truly,

Chair of Recreation Authority

The hiring committee should keep all correspondence, interview questions, and score sheets for a period of seven years.

STEP 5: Job Orientation & Ongoing Support

The final and equally important step of the hiring process is ensuring that the new recreation director receives a thorough orientation to the recreation authority, the community, and their job duties. Successful employees are given the tools they need to achieve the goals of the recreation authority. The orientation and ongoing support are essential tools that recreation authorities can provide to their new employees.

Orientation Checklist

The orientation checklist provides recreation authorities with a tool that can be used to ensure the new employee has received all the information required to perform the job satisfactorily. Once completed, the orientation checklist should be placed in the employee's personnel file. In the future, this form may be used to address any employee performance issues and/or during the annual performance review process.

Lead leisure programs for all ages and interests in a gorgeous and growing community
Town of [REDACTED]
Director, Recreation

If you are looking for an exciting opportunity and an improvement in your quality of life, the Town of [REDACTED] offers you a safe, active and environmentally conscious community that's close to [REDACTED] but far away from the hustle and bustle. With abundant greenspace, historical landmarks, rural settings and recreation, the Town of [REDACTED] is one of the most coveted places to live in [REDACTED]. Robust economically and committed to a sustainable balance of community, environmental and development initiatives, the Town blends urban and rural lifestyles with progressive planning and municipal stewardship.

Reporting to the CAO, you will be responsible for the direction, general management, and overall administration of the Recreation Department. Developing the goals, objectives, and practices required for the effective operation of the Department, you will plan programs which provide balanced recreation/leisure services for the residents of [REDACTED]. Cultivate strong relationships with other departments within the municipality, partners and user groups and communicate regularly with municipal, provincial, and government agencies.

You are an accomplished leader and manager of programs, facilities and people. Communicating with partners, users and other departments is an essential part of your managing skills. A degree or diploma in recreation/leisure studies would be an asset. At least five (5) years' experience in managing an organization is essential. Essentially a manager with knowledge of budgeting, planning, project management and funding opportunities, you are ready to take on a key role with a community that truly recognizes the importance of recreation.

Appendix D: Employee Classification & Wage Scale

WESTMAN RECREATION PRACTITIONERS ASSOCIATION EMPLOYEE CLASSIFICATIONS and WAGE SCALE (2010)

BACKGROUND:

The Westman Recreation Practitioners Association (WRPA) is made up of Professionals who plan, implement and manage a broad range of community recreation and leisure services. They provide a multi-faceted social and economic service that maximizes community involvement and coordination towards community capacity building. Staff has a wide range of skills related to community social and economic development, program administration, staff management, facility management and the management and operation of volunteer boards. The inability of individual Recreation Professionals to address the inequity of salaries relative to similar positions impacts on both the ability of districts/communities to retain existing staff as well as attract qualified staff.

Recreation Professionals are under an increasing amount of pressure to develop partnerships that lead to more initiatives and services being delivered for the communities. Recreation Professionals have become an invaluable resource within their communities and are asked to assist with a wide variety of community projects and initiatives. This includes assisting communities and groups in accessing other government programs; programs that are not their direct responsibility but will provide assistance to the community. This willingness to provide whatever assistance is necessary to ensure community sustainability and social growth has created a confidence from the community. Recreation Professionals have become the primary resource for community and social development within the region and continue to be utilized by a variety of Provincial Government departments for specific needs.

COMMITTEE BACKGROUND:

An Adhoc committee from the Westman Recreation Practitioners Association was formed to look into the wage scales and job functions for existing RP staff. The committee was tasked to come up with a job classification and salary scale, general job description, and code of ethics.

THE REPORT:

The following document provides a classification system for Recreation Professionals. This classification/rating system provides each Community Board/Council with an objective tool that can be used to evaluate the skill, experience and responsibilities of a new position or an existing position who has received new job responsibilities or has significantly upgraded their education and/or skill level. It also provides a starting salary range, 4 classifications within the profession and 5 levels within each classification. Utilizing this system will allow the Community Board to identify its long-term salary commitment for an employee and it will allow the employee to identify their long-term earning potential and goal setting within their position.

Tools and Definitions for the use of the Employee Classification System.

Use of the Classifications System:

Hiring Tool:

The wage classification system is best used as a hiring tool or as a one-time use classification system. If you feel that you require the skills and qualifications of a Recreation Professional I, then you should post for such a position. The starting salary would be negotiated between employer and employee. As an added benefit, when the board uses the system to set a minimum level of skills (minimum standards) required for the position, they can often prevent hiring a person whose skills are not suitable or adequate for the position.

PRESENT STAFF EVALUATION TOOL:

In terms of present employees, the tool is best used to verify existing staff qualifications, confirm current wage status and determine if any inequities exist. Once a base wage is determined, staff would then be able to progress along the wage matrix based on positive annual evaluations and or cost of living. The employee wage scales and classification must be used in concert with an annual evaluation and be a part of the annual budgeting of the district. All staff should receive an annual evaluation with reference to the job classification system.

JOB RECLASSIFICATION:

A person hired as a recreation professional i will remain a rpi unless that person's job changes significantly (added responsibilities) and is therefore redefined, or the board is prepared to pay for additional qualifications. This allows the board to manage its budget. While the positions are not all inclusive of every district, it can still be used to classify most positions.

Recreation Professional Classification/Rating System

The following classification/rating system is to be used to assess the skill and experience level of new RP employees or to reclassify an employee who receives new job responsibilities and/or training.

The Recreation Professional position is divided into four sub-classifications, Recreation Professional I, II, III and IV. The following is the point scale and pay scale for each classification.

Sub-Classification	Points

RECOMMENDATION FOR PAY INCREASE:

Each year of successful performance and positive evaluation within the classification will move the candidate up one income level. In exceptional circumstances it may be possible to move up two levels in a year. Increases will be based on performance and merit

Based on the annual review, has the Recreation Professional:

Criteria	Yes	No
Fulfilled his/her obligations with respect to his/her job requirements.
Accomplished the activities as outlined in the strategic plan.
Has he/she maintained or expanded his/her qualifications within the job classification. (NOTE: based on improvements here, a classification review may be warranted and may move employee into next classification.)
Wage Options: If all yes, recommend for 1 (or if extraordinary, 2 levels of wage increase. If one no, then wage remains the same. If two or more no, consider wage reduction and/or disciplinary action.

WESTMAN RECREATION PRACTITIONERS ASSOCIATION'S EMPLOYEE WAGE SCALE (2011)

Wage Matrix for 2011
Year	Recreation Professional I 10-50	Recreation Professional II 51-100	Recreation Professional III 101-150	Recreation Professional IV 151+
Level 1	$27,593.04	$35,216.49	$44,946.15	$57,363.95

These wages are base wages and do not include any additional benefits such as medical plans, pension contributions, special training allowances, northern allowance, additional holidays or any other additional wages or contributions.

The wages are based on a standard work week of 37.5 hours and may need to be adjusted for longer work weeks or to adjust for hourly paid staff.

Your classification is dependant on an annual evaluation. Level advancement is dependant on an annual evaluation and combination of the two or to meet the cost of living increases

The cost of living increases is not included but should be reflected every year (wrpa to determine this yearly).

Appendix E: Interviewing

Questions Guidelines

The Canadian Human Rights Commission has developed the follow guidelines to be used when conducting interviews to ensure all individuals have equal employment opportunities. More information may be found on the Commission's website: www.chrc-ccdp.ca.

Manitoba: Interviewing Questions Guideline

13. Nothing in this agreement shall prevent, limit or otherwise interfere with the right of the Commission to terminate the services of the Employee at any time, subject only to the provisions set forth in Clauses (15) and (16) below.
14. In the event that the Employee's employment as Recreation Director is terminated by the Commission prior to the expiry of this agreement (subject to Clause 3 above) for any reason, the parties mutually agree that the Employee shall be entitled to receive an amount equal to one (1) month of salary for each year of service by the Employee with the Commission in lieu of notice and the parties agree that this compensation is reasonable in all respects and that neither party shall have any claim against the other with respect to any additional notice or compensation.
15. Notwithstanding the foregoing, should the Employee be terminated from his employment for just cause, and in particular, without restricting the generality thereof, should the Employee commit any act of fraud or breach of trust with respect to his duties as Recreation Director during the term of his employment, then the Commission shall be entitled to terminate his employment forthwith and no compensation shall be payable to the employee after his employment is terminated.
16. The Employee acknowledges the right of the Commission to promote and support policies and procedures governing its employees and agrees to be bound by all such policies and procedures save and except where they specifically contradict the terms of this Agreement.
17. The Employee shall devote his full time and attention to the discharge of his duties under this Agreement in that he shall devote that amount of time and attention normally expected of the Recreation Director of a Recreation Commission. The Employee undertakes and agrees not to commence any employment for or with any other person during the term of this Agreement without the consent of the Commission of which approval should not be unreasonably withheld by the Commission. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Employee may accept part-time engagements, to chair or present panels, seminars and speeches and to keep all fees and honoraria wherefrom, provided that he has received prior approval from the Commission as represented by the Chairman. The Employee acknowledges that this is a reasonable restriction on the part of the Commission.
18. The Employee acknowledges that any trade secrets or confidential information that he becomes aware of or develops in the performance of his duties under this Agreement shall be held by him in the strictest of confidence and not released without the express prior approval of the Commission. The Employee acknowledges that any benefits arising from the development of such trade secrets shall be the sole property of the Commission. The Employee further acknowledges that this restriction is reasonable on the part of the Commission and shall survive the termination of this Agreement.

19. Any notice under this Agreement shall be deemed to be valid if given in writing and delivered by hand or 7 days after mailing as follows:

a) To the Commission

Name
Address

b) To the Employee
